1: BRAND VALUES

In this section we detail the brand values for Fireback.

It's our brand values that make us who we are, inspires what we do and directs how we go about doing it.

Our brand values apply to the universal Fireback brand and how it lives and breathes wherever we are in the world.

FIREBACK

Fireback is the perfect fusion of tradition and modernity.

Beautifully authentic Thai cooking, created simply for a lively, smart casual, taste savvy and aesthetically driven global guest.

The Fireback brand is designed to be evocative, taking its visual cues from flames and fire as well as the plumage and colour of the Siamese Fireback pheasant.

Visually crisp it eschews clothing itself in “Thainess”.

Rather it speaks to a purity of intent where its visceral, textural, tactile environs are executed with the excellence of the passion for flavour to be found on our plates.

2: BRAND AESTHETIC

In this section we bring to life the Fireback brand aesthetic.

Fireback is dark, moody, and textural. Its spaces offer a cool take on urban chic which is warm and welcoming.

Through this ignites a golden yellow highlight which acts like a visual thread weaving the brand together.

Fireback locations should be linked yet individualised by the creative mixing our textural palette and design motifs.

FIREBACK

Found Image of Less Eatery | NOT FOR REPRODUCTION

The Fireback brand is highly textural and visceral.

It deploys honest materiality to stylish effect, creating spaces that feel warm and welcoming with a dash of cool urban charm in equal measure.

Each texture is intended to bring a sense of movement to the brand and its interior, inspired by the essence of fire, flame, feather and flight.

At its core Fireback plays with an honest suite of textures that go to make a unique brand signature across all of its sites.

The interior materials palette can be expressed differently according to location.

3: LOGOTYPE

Here we look at the core Fireback brand identity assets.

The Fireback brand uses an adapted typeface to create a custom logotype wordmark.

The wordmark is accompanied by a monogram suite and also a signature pattern design. These complement the brand and are used as a visual signal or reminder within the design mix.

The master wordmark can also have a specific location tag added to it when needed.

Always use the assets with care and consistency.

FIREBACK

The Fireback brand uses a specially drawn wordmark to create a distinctive and unique logotype.

NOTE: Do not redraw or alter the wordmark from the format shown.

FIREBACK

FIREBACK

The Fireback wordmark can have a location descriptor added to it.

The descriptor is added when wishing to signpost or make clear the location or offer.

NOTE: Remember to expand the location text before finalising its position within the lockup.

NOTE: a specific location lockup with enlarged location typography is used on in situ Insta-walls.

When adding a descriptor follow these simple guides.

You may wish to adjust any descriptor when viewing the final lockup composition.

It is important to keep the Fireback wordmark free of clutter and avoid any visual disruption – we want our brand to shine out clearly.

The ideal safe area is 50% of E character in wordmark.

NOTE: Location is positioned at 25% of EB character in wordmark.

The Fireback logotype has an optical illusion at its centre which references the hypnotic nature of flickering flames.

It's important to consider the visual effect it creates when positioning the full wordmark on any given media.

NOTE: The logo should be positioned optically and compositionally to the individual media / canvas being used..

FIREBACK

FIREBACK

LOCATION

Our brand badge monogram takes the optical illusion lockup from the Fireback wordmark to create a playful and stylish monogram icon, inspired in part by the Siamese Fireback bird itself.

The badge monogram can be used creatively within the brand design language as a simple decorative reprise of the wordmark logotype.

NOTE: The badge monogram shouldn't be used as a primary marque in place of the Fireback wordmark – it should be used as a supporting asset to add interest and variety within the identity.

Mockup Image

Our the Fireback “infinity” monogram can be used as a decorative and textural element within the brand.

As the name suggests the radiating outlines that surround the core monogram can be repeated infinitely as desired. This is done by scaling the outer ring manually and positioning by eye / optically.

The infinity monogram can also be used with just its four centre rings in place.

- 4 ring centre icon
- Ring to continue repeat

NOTE: The infinity monogram shouldn't be used as a primary marque in place of the Fireback wordmark – it should be used as a supporting asset to add interest and variety within the identity.

The Fireback brand pattern features the iconic central optical illusion at the heart of the Fireback logotype.

The monogram pattern is used as a textural element within the overall Fireback brand identity.

Set the pattern monogram at either horizontal, or at 25 ° to 45 °angle left or right.

NOTE: The pattern monogram shouldn't be used as a primary marque in place of the Fireback wordmark – it should be used as a supporting asset to add interest and variety within the identity.

The Fireback speckle gradient is a visual textural element for use within the band identity.

It should be used sparingly and with care on print specific print items.

NOTE: If using the speckle gradient with the Fireback logo ensure good the gradient does not obscure wordmark legibility.

The speckle gradient is available as both a PSD image and EPS vector.

The Fireback logo is centered in a bold, yellow, sans-serif font. The background is a dark charcoal grey with a dense, fine-grained speckle pattern of yellow and white dots. The speckles are more concentrated in the lower half of the image, creating a gradient effect.

5: TYPOGRAPHY

This section looks at the basic type set-up for the Fireback brand.

The Fireback approach to brand typography is that of elegant, stylish simplicity and consistency.

There are two core fonts used at the heart of the Fireback brand and each serves to bring warmth and clarity to all our communications.

FIREBACK

The Fireback brand identity uses 2 fonts in multiple weights across various applications.

TITLE FONT: Ysabeau
used for heading and display typography.

SECONDARY FONT: Poppins
used for paragraph heading, body copy and functional/ navigational copy.

NOTE: Visit Google Fonts to download both font families for use

Once you have your title point size, your subtile should be approximately 10pt smaller.

Bodycopy is typically then 5pt smaller than subtitles with line spacing at 10pt more than bodycopy eg: 20pt copy / 30pt leading.

NOTE: Font sizes should be set accordingly to the media being used and your design and other font weights can be added if greater differentiation is needed.

6: IDENTITY APPLICATION

When applied the Fireback graphic identity acts like a spark of colour within the overall Fireback brand.

Our graphic design flexes between the two core Fireback colours of Charcoal and Goldspot. It provides a flash of colour, creating the golden thread the connects elements.

Also deployed within the digital identity is imagery of fire and flame. It is used sparingly in print and only ever in cases where its reproduction is guaranteed to premium print effect.

FIREBACK

The Fireback brand is simple, unfussy, accessibly urban and stylishly minimally chic.

It is designed to work using the primary logo, core colours and typography in an application that is paired back while being warm and accessible for guests.

NOTE: Shown here and in following pages are examples of how the graphic brand identity can and should be used.

7: DIGITAL DIRECTION

The Fireback brand comes alive within the online environment.

It is on-screen where we can animate the Fireback logo, making the most of its split construction by bringing it together from top to bottom and left to right.

We also use fire and flame video to give drama to the brand within social media and web contexts – using video effects to emerge the Fireback workmark from within sequences of flames.

8: PHOTOGRAPHY

In this chapter we look at photographic direction for the Fireback brand.

In essence both food, drink and interior photography for Fireback should celebrate the honest materials of the brand image.

The composition should be clean, considered and not fussy.

The overall aesthetic should be chic, dark and moody with moments of light, shade and flashes of colour.

FIREBACK

Fireback photography should simply seek to celebrate our food, places and people.

It should employ our textural environment to create a suite of backgrounds that feel natural and authentic.

Lighting should be moody with clean shadows and highlights created, all the while heroing the subject.

NOTE: Shown here are a sample of found images for benchmarking.

Found Images | NOT FOR REPRODUCTION

9: SIGNAGE

Signage for Fireback locations should draw inspiration from the textural aesthetic of the brand.

It should also be made relevant to the specific venue location and interior design direction.

Remember to use the specific location tag sizing guide when creating any Insta-walls.

FIREBACK

Signage at Fireback takes two forms, “brand” and “environmental” application.

Brand signage comprises the signs that are need to clearly highlight to guests that they are indeed in the right place.

Environmental signage is the playful application of brand motifs such as monograms and patterns within the design of a particular location.

NOTE: Remember to add a location tag to any Insta-Walls using and to flex materials used within the Fireback design palette to create interest.

SEE OVER FOR INSTA-WALL LOCATION SIZIG GUIDE.

When creating an Insta-Wall the location tag is set at a bigger size than other brand elements.

10: IN REVIEW

To close it is important to remember to be consistent in all we do so that the Fireback brand identity will shine through wherever it may be .

The Fireback identity elements are simple and honest in intent and should be deployed with care.

Above all the Fireback brand seeks to establish a stylish, chic and urban aesthetic while allowing for flex within each location.

Our aim is to be individually linked by a core set of materials, textures and tones, while never feeling “cookie cutter”, generic or the same.
